

On February 17, 2009, the American Recovery and Reinvestment Act (ARRA) was passed by Congress and signed into law by President Obama. ARRA provides increased support to several existing federal programs administered by states, creates new programs such as the State Fiscal Stabilization Fund, and offers opportunities for states to apply for competitive grant programs.

The American Recovery and Reinvestment Act's significant investment in North Carolina totaled almost $19.5 billion, including assistance for those needing help the most through increases in unemployment benefits, Medicaid payments, and food stamps. In addition to those expanded services, ARRA gives hundreds of thousands of working North Carolinians a break through tax credits like the Making Work Pay tax credit and the First Time Homebuyer's tax credit.

The Recovery Act is not like earlier attempts to revive the nation's economy. It is not only a one-time infusion of federal funds; instead it is a long-term effort to restore economic expansion in the short-term, as well as prepare the nation's economy for stable, healthy long-term growth. Under the terms of the Recovery Act, support for North Carolina's economy will include both investments made directly by the federal government and investments of federal funds that are made under the oversight of the North Carolina state government.

Education

The Recovery Act placed a special emphasis on maintaining education funding. Governor Beverly Perdue furthered this commitment by pledging additional recovery funds from the Recovery Act to education, and leading North Carolina to additional funds by winning $400 million in the Race to the Top program.

Most of the ARRA education funds are distributed to local schools through existing funding formulas. Special Education Funds and Title I funds go to schools based on eligible student enrollment. State Fiscal Stabilization Funds (SFSF) and the EduJobs grants were designed to hold schools harmless during the recession, and were distributed to public and charter schools. The school systems have spent the majority of the funds on staff and support. Some projects, such as Race to the Top, will be spent for purchasing products and services rather than salaries for staff.

Authorization for low/no interest bonds for school construction/renovation followed the Department of Public Instruction procedures with initial allotments to the school systems. If a school system could not utilize their allotment, it was released to other school systems that could utilize additional allotments.

Pitt County schools received $85 million in education funding, including $5.5 million in Special Education funds, $5 million in Title I funds, $48 million in SFSF funds, $3 million in Race to the Top funding and a $6 million bond allocation.

Pell Grants are an educational Assistance Program that provides grants to eligible students to receive post-secondary or vocational training. Because Pell Grants are not student loans, they allow students to receive financial assistance to further education and training without incurring additional debt. The American Recovery and Reinvestment Act increased the eligibility and the maximum amount of Pell Grants in 2009 and 2010 as a way to encourage educational opportunities, and to provide a way for eligible applicants to gain new job skills.

In Pitt County, Pitt Community College and East Carolina University had 10,097 students funded by Pell Grants; these grants were worth more than $17 million.

Family Assistance

The Federal Department of Agriculture increased funding to their Single-Family home program with the ARRA. These resources assisted families in achieving the American Dream of home ownership through direct financial assistance (grants) or credit (loan guarantees). This program pumped more than $729 million into North Carolina, providing assistance to more than 5,400 families.

In Pitt County, 157 families received assistance through this program totaling more than $19.5 million.

The Department of Energy created the Energy Star Appliance rebate program to help stimulate the economy by incentivizing the purchase of new, more energy efficient appliances, and helping consumers by providing long-term savings from their utility bills. The State Energy Office in the North Carolina Department of Commerce managed the program insuring North Carolina residents and retailers received the maximum benefit from this opportunity. North Carolina retailers sold more than 25,500 new energy efficiency appliances through this program, and North Carolina residents will enjoy energy savings for years to come. The program was so successful, that the State Energy Office reprogrammed additional funding to provide discounts to everyone participating in the program, bringing the total program value from $8 up to $10 Million.

Pitt County retailers sold 272 appliances through the Energy Star Appliance rebate program.

Small Business Assistance

The ARRA provided tax breaks, increased depreciation of business assets, and incentives for hiring for small businesses through the tax law changes found in Part B of the Act. The Recovery Act also established direct aid programs through the federal Small Business Administration (SBA) and US Department of Agriculture (USDA). These programs provided grants, loans and loan guarantees to grant small businesses access to much-needed operational credit during 2009 and 2010.

In Pitt County, 29 small businesses received SBA loan guarantees worth $3 million. According to the small businesses receiving these loans, the Recovery Act saved or created 157 jobs.

Farm Assistance

The Supplemental Revenue Assistance Payments (SURE) Program is administered by the Farm Services Administration in the federal Department of Agriculture, which provides assistance to farmers suffering crop losses due to natural disasters. To qualify for the program a farm must have lost at least 10% of one crop during a natural disaster in a declared disaster county, or lost 50% of a crop during a disaster in a non-disaster county. North Carolina farmers received more than $9 million in total payments under the ARRA-Funded SURE Program.

In Pitt County, $204,599 was received in assistance to farmers because of crop loss to natural disasters.

CARS Program

The Car Allowance Rebate Program (CARS), more widely known as the 'Cash-for-Clunkers' program, provided an incentive for drivers of older, energy inefficient vehicles to upgrade to new cars. This program also provided a large economic impact in North Carolina, and North Carolina dealers received more than 18,000 trade-in vehicles through this program. North Carolina Car Dealers sold more than $400,000,000 worth of new cars (recommended MSRP) through the CARS program. North Carolina drivers will save 172,130 miles per gallon through cars purchased through this program.

In Pitt County, car dealers sold 425 cars worth $9.7 million through the ARRA CARS program.

Justice and Public Safety Programs

ARRA increased funding to the federal Byrne Justice Assistance Grants Program (JAG). JAG funds were awarded both as a formula allocation to the State, for $34.5 million, and grants distributed by the Governor's Crime Commission to various local governments and entities. In addition, $21,853,798 went to 216 local governments across the state for various purposes in line with the requirements of the act. Finally, there is a federal competitive portion that was open to state or local government applicants.

In Pitt County, county and city governments, and the Family Violence Program of Pitt County received a 8 JAG program grants worth more than $1 million.

The COPS (Community Oriented Policing Services) awards grants to law enforcement agencies to hire and train community policing professionals, acquire and deploy cutting-edge crime-fighting technologies, and develop and test innovative policing strategies. COPS funding also provides training and technical assistance to community members and local government leaders and all levels of law. In order to help leverage the efficiency of these programs Governor Perdue set aside additional funding to help pay for uniforms and equipment for local governments who have new COPS funded positions.

In Pitt County, the City of Greenville had 8 officers funded through COPS Grants. These grants were worth more than $1.5 million

Broadband Programs

The Recovery Act funded two dedicated high-speed broadband programs, the USDA's Broadband Initiatives Program (BIP), and the US Department of Commerce's Broadband Technology Opportunities Program (BTOP). The BIP focused on the creation of new service or the expansion of existing services in rural areas, while the BTOP focused on statewide or regional development of important broadband infrastructure.

In Pitt County, East Carolina University received a Broadband Data and Development grant worth $80,000.

Environment and Natural Resources Programs

ARRA funded several programs to protect the environment, or to develop natural resources more efficiently. These programs ranged from environmental clean-up, such as leaking underground storage tank abatement and Brownfields programs, to EPA clean air grants, wildfire prevention grants, and revolving funds to build, expand, or overhaul existing water and sewer programs. These programs provided nearly $150 million across North Carolina.

In Pitt County, the Pitt County Government, the Town of Farmville, the Greenville Utilities Commission, and the Town of Bethel received water and sewer grants worth $10 million. In addition, Pitt County received $80,000 to upgrade diesel engines in public transportation.

Green Energy Programs

One of the goals of ARRA was to provide grants to help conserve energy and assist in the development of a green economy. The State Energy Office in the North Carolina Department of Commerce received large grants for energy conservation under the American Recovery and Reinvestment Act. These grants include the Energy Efficiency Conservation Block Grant (EECBG), funded at just under $20 million, and the State Energy Plan (SEP), funded at $70 million. The State Energy Office then used these grants to make awards to businesses, non-profits, and local governments for various purposes.

In Pitt County, the Pitt County Government received an EECBG grant of $107,071 to install electric and water conservation devices. East Carolina University received an SEP grant of $587,000 for energy efficiency upgrades. DSM Pharmaceutical received an SEP grant of $500,000 to replace two inefficient water chillers with one energy efficient chiller and install a variable frequency drive on the pump of a third water chiller unit.

Safety Net Programs

Safety net programs are the category of ARRA funding that consists of programs designed to help populations made particularly vulnerable by the economic crisis. These generally include increases in existing programs, most notably the increase in both benefit level and duration of unemployment payments. Increases in the amount and duration of unemployment payments makes up the largest chunk of safety net programs funded through the Recovery Act, totaling more than $3.5 billion statewide over more than two years. Safety net programs such as unemployment insurance and SNAP (formerly known as Food Stamps), not only benefit the recipient, but have a proven economic impact on a community.

Pitt County residents received $49 million in Unemployment Insurance increases during the 2 ½ year ARRA benefits increase. County residents also received $10.5 million in SNAP benefit increases, and $6 million in one-time payments of $250 to social security recipients.

Pitt County Feature Story

Pitt County Leverages ARRA to Become National Leader in Health Information Technology

One of the goals of the American Recovery and Reinvestment Act is to provide investments needed to spur technological advances in science and health. The American Recovery and Reinvestment Act contained approximately $19 billion in funding for Health Information Technology (HIT) infrastructure, $2 billion for state implementation of health technology and health networks, and regional programs to facilitate adoption of electronic health record technologies. The goal of HIT funds is to create a nationwide health information infrastructure that enables electronic health information to be recorded, shared, and used in a way that improves health.

One of the programs funded through the ARRA was the Health Information Technology for Economic and Clinical Health (HITECH) Act. The HITECH Act and the ARRA funding are specifically designed to work together to provide the necessary assistance and technical support to providers, enable coordination and alignment within and among states, and assure the workforce is properly trained and equipped. The Bureau of Labor Statistics, Department of Education, and independent studies indicate a shortfall over the next five years of approximately 50,000 qualified health IT workers required to meet the needs of hospitals and physicians as they move to adopt electronic health care systems.

The Community College Consortia Program, part of the ARRA's workforce development initiatives, funds community colleges to rapidly create Health IT academic programs or expand existing health IT training programs that can be completed in six months or less. The program is divided into five regional groups of 82 member community colleges representing all 50 states. The member community colleges received Community College Consortia Program graduates high-caliber health information technology professionals interested in supporting the growing and evolving health IT industry, and hopes to train more than 10,500 new highly skilled health IT specialists by 2012.

Pitt Community College is the lead institution for Region D, and will coordinate with other HIT programs, such as the regional extension center and state health information exchange programs, to provide internship opportunities and potential employment to students and graduates of the community college training programs. PCC received $20 million in ARRA funds for curriculum development, training and coordination with 20 other community colleges in the 12-state Region D service area.

The Mission of Region D is to guide the member colleges in their collaborative effort toward training a skilled workforce to support the adoption of EHRs, exchange health information among healthcare providers and public health authorities, and the redesign of workflows within healthcare settings to gain the quality and efficiency benefits of EHRs. It is expected that through this funding, all member Community Colleges with varying training capacities will be able to ramp up quickly and have academic programs in place to train 150 students per year. The Region D Consortium will train a minimum of 3,300 people for employment in the HIT field by early April 2012.
